Bondage games add spark of variety

Dear Readers: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them. — Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: "Linked to a Kink" wrote you because her husband wanted her to tie his wrists together, also his ankles, as a sexual turn-on. I'll bet that letter produced a lot of "Get with it, Annie" mail.

You seem to believe the "bondage game" is sadistic.

Practised by mutual consent, with intelligent limits, it is one of the most exciting games two people can play.

The primary sex organ is the brain. New experiences open the mind to higher levels of enjoyment. This is what bondage practitioners attempt to accomplish. It adds a spark of variety to a very basic human experience.

If "Linked" were to join in her husband's fantasy, she might like it a great deal. It surely couldn't hurt. Then again, she might not enjoy it, but she should at least give it a try.

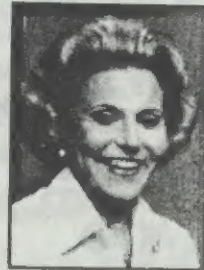

You were wrong to nix the idea. Please don't inhibit your readers, Ann. Help them get the most out of life. — Informed

Dear In: I have been neither anointed nor appointed to nix or put a stamp of approval on anything two people choose to do in the privacy of their bedroom. If it's all right with them, it's all right with me.

The woman wanted to know if it was "wrong." I told her no, not if it helped her husband's performance — which it did.

When she asked if it was "kinky," I said yes — which it is.

If she wants him to tie her up also, they will have to get a third party into the act to do the tying and untying — or maybe I am so dumb I can't figure the thing out.

Ann
Landers

Advice

And any sex that involves more than two people is also kinky, so far as I am concerned.

Dear Ann Landers: I sent you a poem five years ago. I was only 13 then and so proud of myself because you let me contribute to your column. The reason I sent it was because my mother was a heavy smoker and when I asked her to quit for my sake she said, "I'll try but I can't promise." When my poem appeared in your column she quit. I think it might help a lot of people who may not have seen it when it ran in 1972 and perhaps many who saw it may have forgotten it by now. So, Ann, please run it again. It may be corny, but it makes sense. Thank you. — ABC

Dear ABC: Corny or not, it's still good. I've taken off the husks and here it is again.

DID is a word of achievement.
WON'T is a word of retreat.
MIGHT is a word of bereavement.

CAN'T is a word of defeat.
OUGHT is a word of duty.
TRY is a word of each hour.
WILL is a word of beauty.
CAN is a word of power.

* Wash all your makeup equipment regularly. Sponges can be dipped in hot soapy water, rinsed thoroughly and left to dry naturally. Keep them clean and free of dust in plastic bags.

* Keep caps on makeup pencils when they are not in use. This keeps the tips smooth and perfectly shaped.

* Treat yourself to professional makeup brushes. These are usually thick and fluffy while certain versions are chisled or tapered according to the way they will be used. Professional brushes are tons better than the versions that come with eye shadow and blusher products.

* After applying face cream, massage the residue into the hands and cuticles.

* When travelling by plane, always moisturize the face well, since the air pressure can cause dry skin.

Dear Illusions Members,

Hi ... hope you all had as good of a summer as I did. It was wonderful in Ontario the lakes and water were beautiful. Even if I didn't get waterskiing in a bikini it was still fun. It's been good to get back home and see my sisters.

First off, I would like to thank Jacquie and Colleen for being so kind and looking after the library while I was on holiday.

It's been real hard to keep track of all the members who have contributed to our library over the summer months so as not to leave anyone out ... I would just like to thank all the sisters. A special mention goes out to Earl who has given so much effort and time on helping us ... we should all say thanks to him/her... (Way to go Earl)

As I'm sure you are all aware, Barbie and Bryan were gone the month of August. We realize that people who had checked out mag's and books must have found this inconvenient to return them. Now that the club room is open during Barbie's regular hours, I would be pleased if said items were returned. Thank you. This is especially needed as "our" library is for all members' enjoyment and education.

I would also like to invite all our new members to come in and enjoy our library and video selections. As we are starting our prime time of the year, if any members have picked up stories, books, mags or whatever and would like to donate them to our library, your contributions are always welcome.

Love Always to My Sisters,

Ms. Stephanie

Surprise!! Men Throughout The

Ages Wore Makeup

Real men don't wear makeup today, but even macho men rouged their lips, powdered their faces and painted on artificial eyebrows in the past.

One Egyptian King even carried his cosmetics case onto the battlefield and as late as the 19th Century, top English Army Officers wore makeup.

The first recorded use of men wearing makeup was in Egypt 5,000 years ago. Just like women, Egyptian men rouged their cheeks and lips and darkened the corners of their eyes with Kohl, a black powder. Some of the men even shaved off their natural eyebrows and replaced them with painted ones.

King Tut was buried with jars of skin cream and the men of ancient Greece were just as vain.

Fashionable young Greeks doused themselves so heavily with perfume that a law was passed prohibiting the sale of fragrant oils to Athenian men.

In 16th Century France, King Henry III walked the streets of Paris "made up like an old coquette", his face plastered with white and red and his hair covered with a perfumed violet powder.

During the same period, men in England wore perfumed gloves to protect their hands from the dirt and grime of everyday life.

By the 1700's, English dandies were beginning to paint their cheeks and lips with rouge, blacken their eyebrows and perfume themselves. They even carried tiny combs to groom their eyebrows.

NEWS

By the 18th Century, upper class American colonists were following the British and French custom of using rouge.

Around the same time, British men began trimming their eyebrows and wearing elegant artificial brows made of mouse skin.

But during the repressive era of Queen Victoria's reign, people began to frown on men wearing cosmetics and the general practise died out.

The DRAG LINE

"Well girls" .. Summer's over, holidays are done, kids are back at school and fall is on us.. or should I say.. Winter is .. shorter days, longer days, longer nights "Ahhhh".. I can almost hear the rustle of crinolines over tights. Get what I mean? It's that time of the year again.

"Haven't seen much of the sisters lately? What's the matter? Marna lock away your makeup? Or are we just getting a little too jaded? UMMMMMM"

Remember the club is still happening. Middle of the month Saturday is still entertainment night and it can be as exciting as you want to make it. Got a hidden talent? Wanna Lip Sync? Well this is the place... just give Barble or Bree a little notice.. they'll be more than happy to accomodate you.

"Oh Yes" and don't forget last Thursday of the month social. A little more laid back but still entertaining. A chance to sit back and chat with the sisters. Remember this is your club! Get out, get involved, make it happen!

Now for the ghost, ghouls and queens, this is your chance to get out into the real world. For a night or week, should I say weekend.. there are endless possibilities and for the not too secure, you could always cruise Boystown Metro..318..Maddisons of Trax.. there's always bound to be something outrageous happening at these clubs on any night.

P.S. A little note from the girls in Calgary! Marsha and Edmonton Illusions Happy 2nd Birthday.. We just want to know are 'ya' gonna party on November 12th... Should we come? Let us know!

Well chow for now, talk to you next month!

HAIR TODAY...

GONE TOMORROW

Was the first time you shaved your legs anything like mine??

Comment by Veronica Anderson

For a young, beginning crossdresser, probably the first really definite step we take is to shave our legs. We can dress up, make our first crude attempt at makeup, and experience feelings that are new and tremendously exciting but as we progress, our first sincere commitment to the "life" is to turn those hairy old legs of ours into smooth, silky columns of femininity just waiting for the soft caress of the sheerest stockings we can find. Sound familiar? Of course it does!

The first time I shaved my legs, and underarms, was at the age of twenty. I was pretty much in this same boat, totally enamoured with the thought of dressing and looking like a woman, wanting to exercise that feminine half of me which was just screaming to come out. Those were the days, all innocence and nervous energy. My first attempt at denuding was a real "Follicle Follie". Of course, at twenty, I had been shaving my face for several years and I was accustomed to that manly task. Confident and cocky that I had all the experience I needed to turn my legs as smooth as porcelain, I reached for the dainty little lady shaver I'd just bought at the drugstore and stepped into the tub. Well!! Do you by any chance remember the shower scene from "Psycho"? Hitchcock had nothing on me girls! I promptly looked like I'd gone a few rounds with Freddie Krueger from "Nightmare on Elm Street!" You know where I got it.. around the ankle bone, along the shin, behind the knee. Ouch! This is definitely a learned skill! And my underarms! Honestly! Later while applying deodorant, I considered renaming Ice Blue Secret to Red Hot Needles!

To add insult to injury, I hadn't done a terribly good job of removing hair. Removing skin? That I was an expert at! But removing hair? Well, have you ever seen a photo of a forest that has just been worked over by a logging company? Stumps and stubble everywhere! So now I was properly sliced and diced, but I still had a 5 o'clock shadow on my legs. I could shave my face with gnarly a nick, smooth as a baby's bottom, but my legs were a war zone.

So what's next? What more could I possibly do to torture my poor, unfortunate gams? That's right. You've got it! A depilatory! I'm a gullible consumer, just like the rest of you. I had visions of the "TV" commercials in my head, where my long luscious legs are being gently rinsed free of the comforting lather, which effortlessly gobbles every hint of hair shaft, leaving glistening, million dollar limbs completely free from anything even resembling stubble. Dream on, girls! You can bet your best bloomers that when I innocently spread the rich creamy concoction over my legs it was not "Neat" feeling, considering what I'd just done with the razor. Oh well, Live and Learn.

Now, ten years later, I can shave my legs slick and slippery in the blink of a well made-up eye, and the feel of my sheer stocking against them is one of the real treats of femininity, but back then, the effort was gigantic and the results catastrophic! I think I would have done better with a weed eater!

Certainly the effort of removing the vestige of masculinity was less than comfy. I can look back on it with humour now, but the real shocker hit me just about the same time the stinging stopped. I suddenly realized how severely I had just compromised my masculine self in favour of my feminine self. Honestly! My God, what about wearing shorts? What about the beach? What about the locker room? My God, what about my girlfriend? What had I done? Weird and mentally deficient excuses came to mind, like "OH, My legs? Well, you see I have a rare disease which makes my body hair fall out"? Or how about, "Yes, I shave my legs, I'm a competitive swimmer, don't you know." Have you ever heard anything so pathetic? Oh Well, Needless to say, I was never compromised. My girlfriend, now my wife, not only understood but got a kick out of it. The guys in the locker room usually have their own little secrets, and at the beach who gives a damn! The silly excuses were just that, excuses.

For those of who have been through a like situation, my words are hopefully a humorous hint towards the past. As for anyone out there considering that first step towards a serious crossdressing commitment, like de-furring the form remember the smooth ease with which you scrape your face is not the same as mowing the lawn on your lower limbs. Be careful, especially around the ankle and the knee, or you'll be playing out the shower scene from "Psycho" just like I did! Be careful and enjoy!

All the best,

VERONICA

CHRISTMAS DINNER

December 19, 1992

NEWS

Xmas Potluck Dinner will be held on our Saturday Meeting. Like last year, the club will supply the "Bird", and those that plan to attend will be asked to bring a dish to round out our dinner. We will need commitments from as many members as soon as possible. This will ensure this dinner will be as successful as years gone by.

Preparing foods can be easy for some of those flexible but for others many items can be picked up on the way. An assortment of foods from salads, veggies, desserts, buns, pickles, dips, etc. are needed.

Contact Barbie or Bryan at "the Shoppe" 236-7072 with your potluck commitment!! We look forward to hearing from you!

Remember girls... door fee is waived if you make your commitment and participate in Potluck... otherwise it's $10 at the door.

In lieu of member gift exchange, we wish to see a donation to the Food Bank box or an unwrapped gift for the Childrens' Gift Program in Calgary.

WHAT YOU SEE ISN'T ALWAYS WHAT YOU GET!

OR
MIRROR

You've sat in front of the make-up mirror for what seems like hours... finally the face is done, the hair is on and beautifully set. Standing, you check yourself out in the full length mirror... shoes on with a nice heel, hose... no runs, good! You notice your calf muscle is more prominent in heels, making for a much nicer look to the leg. The skirt hem is a perfect length, the blouse just right to hint at correct upper proportions and belted to show a waist line. One more look at make up and hair... all perfect... a vision of femininity, ready to go anywhere and be passable. Your TV mirror has just confirmed what you knew all along.

At this point the Magic TV Mirror has shown you what you look like... or so you thought. You're saying "What do you mean thought, I don't need glasses and I know what I saw in the mirror". Well, here's where it gets philosophical!

What you see in the mirror in all likelihood is a pre-conceived notion of what you mind would like you to look like. I'm not saying your mind is capable of saying your blouse is white when you know it is blue but perhaps it blurs out some of the rough edges. With the rough edges gone, you are the vision of loveliness you have always aspired to be. We all know what we would like our "femme" side to look like... perhaps even fantasize about our look, build that look in our mind until you could almost reach in and touch her. Then, magically, there she is in all her glory looking back at you from that magic mirror.

Time to get out of the confines of home or hotel room and experience the world with our new self. I am thrilled that you are furthering your "femme" experiences, broadening your horizons, venturing out into the public eye.

Most of the general populace don't even notice and if they do, they are too caught up in their own problems and life to even care. Our thought is we're passing and slowly the paranoia subsides. We become brave, go places without much thought as to how we're dressed or to how we may be perceived.

Here's where things can get tricky... Why? The rest of the world doesn't have the advantage of your "TV Mirror". The rough edges shine through crystal clear.

LADY BEWARE!!

When dressed up we aren't very imposing, physically or mentally and as such pretty easy targets. Certainly quite recognizable for what we are. I am not advocating fear and paranoia, I am however advocating caution. Look as objectively as you can at how you're dressed compared to where you're going so you fit in with the rest of the crowd... dress appropriately.

The next and finally the last point I would like to make is watch where you're going. If possible, go in groups and try not to put yourself in an area where there is no escape (eg.

busses, LRT, elevators, any confined area). Use caution when leaving your car or the club you are at. Use well lit streets, back alleys and dark parking lots should be areas you never enter. Do things like carry your keys in your hand (ends pointed out)... helps to get into your vehicle faster and can be used for self defense.

We live in a society that for the most part is pretty tolerant, however, there are groups that enjoy picking on minority groups and some are quite violent. Please have fun with your "femme" side but be safe and use good judgement.

CHRISTMAS NOTICE

Thanks to the generosity of our members last holiday season, our club was able to donate several boxes of food and toys to Calgary and Edmonton needy families. This year... let's out-do ourselves.

We'd love to see you gals, bring along a non-perishable food item or toy to each club function.

It is through your good will and compassion that we can make sure a child has a Christmas Dinner and a gift under his or her tree.

Thank you Sisters, for Caring,

All the Best in this 1992 Holiday Season.

BARBIE, BREE, STEPHANIE, & MARSHA

MERRY XMAS!

Hi Ladies! This is a special time of the year as we look ahead to 1993 and reflect back on 1992. Christmas is more than a happy feeling. It's a celebration with our friends and family. So to all of my new "girlfriends" at Illusions- have a very merry Xmas and a happy New Year.

 Cielo is a professional person who has been use to the finer things in life. She is educated and well travelled and comes to our club since she lost contact with her support group at the Clarke Institute in Toronto.
